MILLION RIFLES TO GO TO ALLIES, CLAIM IN SUIT

Westinghouse Concern Said to Have Contract Calling for Delivery Within Year.

Hitherto unknown details of the sale of the J. Stevens Arms and Tool Company's stock and plants to the Westinghouse Electric Company for the manufacture of arms for one of the European allies were furnished to-day in papers filed in the Supreme Court in a suit brought by Dickerson G. Baker, a mechanical engineer, and Edgar Park to collect $345,000 in commissions from directors of the Stevens Company.

In May, Baker and Park allege, the Westinghouse Company purchased 90 per cent. of the Stevens stock for $2,343,750. This also included two of the Stevens-Duryea automobile plants located near the rifle factories in Chicago Falls, Mass. The contract with the Westinghouse people, the papers disclose, called for the manufacture and delivery in Europe of 1,000,000 military rifles within a year.

It is not known which ally made the contract with the electric concern and efforts to find out to-day were unsuccessful. Previous to coming to New York Baker was general manager of the Carole Freres, manufacturers of Diesel engines, in Ghent, Belgium.

Before going to Europe he was for four years superintendent of the Remington Arms Company's plant at Ilion, N. Y. When the war broke out American consular agents in Belgium advised him to leave, but returning to his native land, Baker visited military authorities in France and Belgium.

Baker alleges that he met Frank H. Page, one of the Stevens Company directors, at the Engineers' Club and learned that the Stevens people were anxious to dispose of their stock. Page, according to the papers, asked Baker to find a buyer. After many conferences with Page and his fellow directors, Irving H. Page and Henry H. Rowman, Baker and Park were told that the plant could be purchased for $2,400,000.

As the contract with the foreign government had not been closed, Baker declares, the Westinghouse company postponed the purchase of the rifle plant and for a time the matter was in the air. In April this year Baker and Park learned through other sources that the Westinghouse people had closed the sale. Baker and Park demanded commissions of $115,000 from each of the three Stevens directors and then, for the first time, the two brokers were told that the sale had not been consummated through their efforts. Suit to collect the commission was then brought against the three directors.

An attachment against the Stevens Company's property was granted by Supreme Court Justice Connelly. In court to-day Supreme Court Justice Goff, sitting in Part One, released the attachment on the ground that it appeared that no contract of employment was made between the Stevens directors and Baker and Park, and that if any contract was made it was made by the Westinghouse representatives.

SCHOOL GIRL SORRY SHE TRIED TO DIE

Lina Spent Time on Novels, Says Her Father, and Failed of Promotion.

Lina Schlorman, the seventeen-year-old Washington Irving High School girl who tried to commit suicide in the cooking classroom yesterday by swallowing oxalic acid, is recovering from the effects of the poison to-day at Bellevue Hospital, where she is being held a prisoner.

"I'm sorry I did it," the girl said to a nurse. "It was a foolish thing. But I worried—oh, so much!"

Lina's worrying, according to her parents, was due to her having failed for the second time to be promoted.

"She is too ambitious," said the father in their home at No. 37 Beekman Place. "She tries to do many things at once. She reads and reads, and she wants to be a great author. How can you expect a girl to do school work when she spends her time reading novels?"

Man Who Leaped off Steamboat Identified by Valise.

The man who committed suicide last night by jumping into the North River from the steamboat Astor Park off the foot of Desbrosses Street was identified to-day as Walter P. Laidlaw, who lived for fourteen years in a rooming house at No. 129 East Fifty-ninth Street. Identification was made by means of a valise he left on the boat.

Laidlaw was a bookkeeper. Three months ago he was arrested charged with a trifling theft in a department store. He was convicted, but sentence was suspended on his promise to go to his home in Canada.

NEW COURT-HOUSE PLANS TOO GRAND, BOARD IS TOLD

Judges' Chambers and Other Sections Said to Be Extravagantly Sumptuous.

Comptroller Prendergast, President George McAneny and Borough President Pounds reported to the Board of Estimate to-day that apparent extravagance, prodigality of planning, sumptuousness of Judges' chambers far beyond the needs of their proposed occupants and other evidences of excesses were unearthed in their first week's investigation of the proposed new court house. As a result there is strong likelihood that the building will be stripped of most of its intended grandeur.

"A superficial examination of the proposed Court-House plans shows," said Mayor Mitchell, "that there has been apparent extravagance of planning. This is not meant as a criticism of the plans. A further and more detailed examination of every section of the plans will be made. If the extravagances are found to be actual they certainly will not be approved by this board."

Speaking for the committee of three appointed last week to learn from Corporation Counsel Frank Lyon Polk whether the Board of Estimate has the right at this stage to reject the Court-House plans, President McAneny said: "We are to ask the Court-House Board for explicit estimates on the cost of constructing the building. Heretofore we simply approved general outline plans minus the specifications."

It strikes the committee that some of the rooms provided are to be far more sumptuous and luxurious than will be necessary. I refer particularly to the plans for the library, Judges' chambers and restaurant. Already the Court House Board knows that the cost of the building must not exceed $10,000,000. Further, if there is to be any economies within that list they will be effected. The examination we have made shows that there are many opportunities to save. Not a dollar will be expended unless it is justified."

After the committee's report the Board of Estimate adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, that the Court House Board is requested to submit to the Board of Estimate at the earliest possible moment a complete statement of quantities of all new work and material to go into the proposed new Court House and also to submit detailed estimates under the various headings contained in the specifications, as for instance, metal, furring and lathing. "Resolved, further, that the Board be requested to direct the architects for the Court House to furnish the Bureau of Contract Supervision of the Board of Estimate information concerning all plans and specifications and particularly a statement showing the use that is to be made of every room and every other facility shown in the plans."

ASKED TO TAKE REST, HE COMMITS SUICIDE

Henry D. Warner Had Virtually no Vacation in Fifty-three Years of Labor.

Following his promise to his wife and two daughters yesterday that he would "retire from business" and take the rest he had earned by fifty-three years of work with scarcely any vacations, Henry D. Warner, sixty-eight, head of the sales department for the Reedsboro Chair Company, No. 63 Fifth Avenue, ended his life at 7 o'clock this morning by shooting himself in the head. The suicide occurred in the bedroom of his home, No. 357 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, just after Mrs. Warner had noticed her husband's restlessness and had gone to get him some quinine medicine.

Three months ago Warner's family persuaded him to take a trip to San Francisco, and on his return he visited a sister at Homer, N. Y., who had suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Fear of a similar fate preyed on the man's mind, his family say. At his place of employment it was said he had complained of pains in the head for two days past. He was also a victim of insomnia.

Baby Falls to Her Death.

In grabbing at a pot of daisies which she had jarred from its stand on a window ledge of her home at No. 415 Third Avenue, last night, Irene Taylor, four years old, fell three stories to the yard. Dr. Farr took her to Bellevue. Her skull was fractured and she had internal injuries. She died within two hours, despite an operation.
